The Office of the Auditor General is proud to serve Ontario's Legislature, providing it with objective information and advice on government activities based on the Office's independent audits of programs and services delivered by the Ontario government and its agencies, Crown corporations, and other public-sector organizations that receive public monies.

Here's what staff who recently joined the Office have to say

I appreciate the very balanced life I lead at the OAGO, as compared to two other accounting firms I've worked at. For half the year, I work on the second-largest audit in Canada (the province's Public Accounts) and, for the other half, on a VFM [value-for-money] audit. The VFM audit lets me put on a "consultant's hat" and recommend value-added operational improvements to ministries. Since the focus is on operations, not numbers, I've gained insight into organizations that goes beyond just the finance department."

—Ryan McGuire

Everyone in the office is very nice. During my first VFM, I always got clear instructions, and my suggestions and opinions were appreciated. The Office has also been very understanding and supportive of my UFE studies, providing a preparation program and readily approving time-off requests. I'm very happy to be starting my career with the OAGO."

—Cherry Chau

Among many interesting experiences for me at the OAGO has been doing an inventory count of the LCBO's Vintages warehouse, for wines over 50 years old. I learned all about the importance of light and temperature when storing wines. After a year of working and studying for my exams I decided to take a month off in the summer to backpack through Peru and Bolivia. My director appreciated this would be a great experience and helped me arrange the time off."

—Izabela Beben

If you want to see how the province of Ontario really works, this is the place to be. When I first started I was in and out of numerous ministry offices and visited two large LCBO warehouses, and that was just my first month at the OAGO! A career at the OAGO gives you the ear of Queen's Park and an opportunity to improve how the government operates."

But just as importantly...

It's an interesting place to work

About two-thirds of our audit resources are devoted to value-for-money audits that encompass the whole spectrum of government operations.

Rather than focusing on financial statements and accounting controls, you will be reviewing the operations of the full range of programs and services being delivered by your government and by the broader public sector. From hospitals to universities, from daycare to seniors' care, from charitable gaming to environmental protection—there are hundreds of interesting areas where you can apply your skills.

It's a rewarding place to work

The rewards of working at our Office go beyond the financial benefits and the friendly, team-based environment offering varied and interesting audit opportunities. Our talented and professional staff are committed to offering you the training and experience you need to excel in audit assignments. Training occurs both on the job and in the classroom. In addition, we partner with CA firms for parts of the CA training program and sponsor your participation in other specialized courses to ensure you are exam-ready.
